Great Room Includes Vaulted Ceiling

ISOLATED MASTER BEDROOM A NEW IDEA

FEATURE HOMES
© By W. D. FARMER

A covered stoop entry directs you to full formal foyer with view to U-shape stair to basement and direct to the activity room. The activity room is endowed with enormous size, vaulted ceiling and stone fireplace. Dining is adjacent and is planned to accommodate a large number of people. There are deck access and kitchen access from here.

The kitchen has a full perimeter of cabinets, bonus pantry, built-in appliances and view to sun deck. The laundry, double garage access and a pantry are nearby.

There are two bedrooms, which share a full bath with vanity on one end and the master bedroom suite on the other. All have good closet space and the master bedroom is full depth to include luxury bath and dressing room.

The exterior is enhanced by tasteful use of stone and vertical paneling with stone chimney accented by extended great roon. gable.

The plan is Number 883. It includes 1,813 square feet of heated area. All W. D. Farmer plans include special construction details for energy efficiency and are guaranteed to meet FHA and VA requirements. For further information write W. D. Farmer, P.O. Box 49463, Atlanta, Ga. 30359.

When faith is tested

By WILLIAM L. TRIMYER

Introduction

Where do we really stand when we get down to the nitty-gritty of life and faith? What are our true colors when life's hardest tests come our way? Are we willing to take a stand or do we simply fall in line where life is pretty much comfortable? Are we willing to pay the cost of trying the untried roads in life or are we content to remain on the beaten path?

The Bible and Daily Living

These are soul-searching questions that only we can decide for ourselves. No one can answer them for us. There always comes a time when we must give an answer to ourselves, to others, and to God. In this week's lesson we look at how Jesus confronted his disciples with a question they and he needed to settle once and for all.

Affirming Christ as Savior [Matthew 16:13-17]

Living life at the crowd level is the simplest way to get by. By following the crowd you do as everyone else does; you follow the same pattern of thinking; you keep up with the same styles; and you seek to be unmistakably one of them. Blending with the crowd is the easiest and least painful way to carry out one's life and faith.

There comes a time, however, when we are confronted to declare our uniqueness in who we are and what we believe. Jesus had to settle the issue once and for all as to who his disciples thought he was. He could not endure the cross nor death without having it firmly fixed in their hearts who he was and what he was about.

So Jesus asks, "What are crowds saying about me?" When the disciples answer with various descriptions, Jesus drops the bomb: "But who do YOU believe I am?" The focus shifts from the crowd to the very personal. And that's the way it must ultimately be, that is, we must be able to state our own personal beliefs and not simply the crowd's relief.

Christ blesses the struggling pilgrim who arrives at his or her faith through personal faith and commitment.

Faith That Gives Birth To The Church [Matthew 16:18-20]

Peter's response to Jesus' question is well-known. His answer has unfortunately been a source of conflict between Protestants and Roman Catholics. Did Jesus intend to imply that Peter was to be first in the apostolic succession of bishops? When Jesus mentioned the church, was he talking about the church as we know it? That "church" didn't show up until years later after his death and resurrection.

We must be as true to the spirit of Christ as we possibly can in our interpretations. I think it is safe to say that the church Christ was seeking to found was a church out of faithful persons like Peter. Thus, whoever confesses Christ as Savior becomes a part of his church. Christ remains the center or head of the church. No one usurps that position no matter how pious or close to the Lord. And the further good news is that no power, however strong, can tear apart the church of the faithful.

The Meaning Of Discipleship [Matthew 21-26]

Once Jesus knew where his disciples stood in their knowledge of who he was, he proceeded to share with them the divine course of his life. Peter rebuked Jesus and offered him protection, but Jesus said, "You really don't understand fully, do you?" (author's paraphrase)

So Jesus goes on to describe to his disciples what it means to be a follower of THE WAY. Jesus laid down the conditions of discipleship for all who would consider getting onboard. Jesus never called persons under false pretenses, which is something every church must remember in their witnessing. The church doesn't need to entice persons into the kingdom with candy bars!

The cross we bear is not meant to be a burden. Burdens are natural to human life, but a cross is voluntarily carried. It is something we "take up" and carry because we wish to. Thus, in following Christ we adopt the life style of self-denial. In following we go where he goes...to the sick, to the lonely, to the lost. In our following after him we will find ourselves in his freedom.

Jim Baxter honored

James E. Baxter II

James E. Baxter II, of Appomattox, a student at Virginia Commonwealth University in Richmond has been notified by J. Curtis Hall, Dean of Business at VCU that he is listed among the top six percent in the school of business. Baxter had an average of 3.927 out of a possible 4.0.

"Only those with truly superior performance are so honored," stated Hall; "your superior academic performance honors both you and the university. I hope you will continue with such excellence in all of your future endeavors," concluded Hall.

Baxter, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Baxter is a 1979 graduate of Appomattox County High School.

Club to meet

The Appomattox Homemakers Club will hold its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday, February 17 at 10 a.m. at Liberty Baptist Church.

The ladies of the church will be hostesses. Members are urged to attend and bring program ideas.

Coping with February: an analogy

By Rev. Peter B. Hale

"I once heard an elderly lady say that she tried very hard during her life to practice daily the great precepts and commandments of the Christian faith. But, she continued, she always had trouble forgiving February.

February, a short month but one with hard circumstances usually. It is a particularly difficult month for people whose health is not what it used to be, people whose years have considerable weight. It may be a month with only 28 days, but somehow the length gets out of proportion. It is the month when boat prices are softest and depression deepest.

But it does pass. Spring is not far away although we may not feel like it now. It will come in, bright and refreshing.

Our relationship to God sometimes functions like winter and spring. Something happens and the distance lengthens, or the relationship chills. February of the spirit can deepen our darkness and slow our hope and joy. Yet the brightening of spring that follows the calendar February is a poor analogy to the brightening of the person when God once again by his love draws us back to himself, and it is true what that old saying says, "The night is darkest just before the dawn."

Peter R. Hale is pastor of Appomattox Court House Presbyterian Church and Walker's Presbyterian Church.
